

Jay D. Oliphant

Normally, I try to live a peaceful and productive life, and I will continue. I don't mess with anybody and don't get involved in anyone's business. However, over the last few months, I've been subjected to personal attacks, purely due to an ethical decision I made in Dec. 2015. During that time, I refused to succumb to threats and intimidation from a local Natchitoches business man, whose daughter was arrested by an officer under my command. Sometime between then and now, this local business man has allegedly hired private investigators or "someone" to follow me and watch my every move. I have observed a suspicious vehicle(s) near my residence, which have been confirmed to have a direct connection with this local and wealthy businessman. I must admit, as calm and collective as I've tried to be throughout my life, this one has me concerned simply due to safety reasons. To confirm someone is in fact following or watching me, has caused a great amount of fear for me and my family. Rest assured, I will do whatever is necessary to protect those who are near and dear to me, including myself. I have recently been advised, this individual has been in contact with various media outlets, pressuring them to release coverage, indicating he has "proof" that I have committed or have been committing some form of payroll fraud. This is a clear and obvious attempt to continue to intimidate and retaliate against me for not giving him what he wanted, in that, I adamantly refused to reassign and/or relocate the officer who arrested his daughter. Due to the decision I made in Dec. 2015, not only am I still paying for it, but the arresting officer is as well (Yes, it's what we signed up for). Through it all, I have truly received the overwhelming support of people like you from different states across the country who know the story. Thank you for your prayers and support, as I continue to deal with this true definition of a tyrant!!!

Why Facebook? Social media is where people stay somewhat informed. Thanks again, and take care
